SENTENCES IMPOSED CHART

TWELVE MONTH PERIOD ENDED JUNE 30, 1984

Administrative Office of the United States Courts

INTRODUCTION

The Sentences Imposed Chart was first published in 1977 to provide U.S. probation officers with specific offense and sentence information to use in their presentence reports to judges. It supplements the general sentencing data that has appeared in Appendix Table D-5 of the Annual Report of the Director for many years.

In prior years, the sentencing data for this Chart were obtained from JS-3 Criminal Defendant Statistical Case Closing Forms submitted by Clerks of Court. Beginning with this report, the data are now derived from the Federal Probation Sentence and Supervision Information System (FPSSIS) which superseded the Probation Reporting System on July 1, 1983. Because FPSSIS data are derived from reports of Federal probation offices, emphasis is directed to the terms of sentences imposed. In addition, FPSSIS provides for corrections and reductions under Rule 35 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, or other modifications to the original term imposed. The sentences shown in this Chart, therefore, better represent the actual sentences to be served by defendants.

The material in the introductory pages includes the following: explanations of how offenses and sentences are classified; instructions for locating and reading data and averages; cautions concerning the use of the published average; and alternatives for obtaining other averages and summaries for sentence comparisons. First-time users of the Chart are advised to familiarize themselves with these pages for a fuller understanding of the data presented.

Certain changes have been made in this year's presentation. Regular users of past Charts are advised, therefore, to read the "Definition of Sentence Columns" section, in particular, to be aware of these changes. Changes are announced by the words "this year" in bold type within the explanatory text, as in this paragraph.

To ensure accuracy, all sentences shown were carefully reviewed. Terms that deviate from the others in a group or that appear to be outside the legal or maximum penalty for a single conviction were checked against the source documents received from the Chief Probation Officers. For districts in which staff entered data directly into the main computer at the A.O. via local computer terminals, unusual sentences were verified by phone.

This Sentences Imposed Chart is a definitive product of more than 2,000 Federal probation officers and statistical clerks who submit detailed reports on each person sentenced or placed under supervision. Moreover, staff personnel in 40 districts participated in intense training programs to enable them to enter these case reports via local computer terminals. The remainder continued to submit written reports for central data entry using Probation Reporting Forms 3 and 3A. Without the cooperation of all of these probation personnel, this report would not be possible. The Administrative Office appreciates their dedication.

The publication itself was prepared and the data entry program was coordinated by the Criminal Branch, SARD under the direct supervision of Mr. Rick Ransom, Program Analyst and general oversight of Mrs. Dolores Sawyer, Branch Chief. Data verification and review was performed by Ms. Mary Brown, Data Technician.

CAVEAT

This Sentences Imposed Chart is a compilation of sentences imposed in the 94 district courts during the twelve month period ended June 30, 1984. Individual sentences include all terms imposed on one defendant in one case and are shown under the most serious offense for which there was a conviction. The Chart does not distinguish between a sentence imposed for conviction on a single count and one which represents the sum of terms imposed for multiple counts (referred to as consecutive sentences).

Split Sentences include jail terms of six months or less on one count with probation on a separate count as well as regular split sentences imposed on a single count. Sentences imposed under provisions of the Youth Corrections Act (YCA, Title 18 U.S.C. Section 5010), the Federal Juvenile Delinquency Act (FJDA, Title 18 U.S.C. Section 5037), and Indeterminate sentences imposed under Title 18 U.S.C. Section 4205(b) are included with regular terms and in the computed averages. So, too, are sentences imposed on Dangerous Special Offenders (Title 18 U.S.C. Section 3575e), and other statutes which add incremental terms for subsequent or serial convictions.

There is no attempt to endorse any particular length of sentence for a specific offense, nor to present the average (mean) as the most representative sentence. The average may have some statistical value, but there is no average crime or average offender. Characteristics of the defendant and the offense, with other information not shown here, contribute to the determination by a judge of the appropriate sentence.

All of these factors, as well as the possibility of errors in submission or entry of sentence data, must be taken into account when using this Chart for statements about Federal sentencing patterns. Indeed, the sentences are provided to highlight the unusually high or low terms which tend to distort the published averages and to provide the range and frequency of all sentence terms imposed.

Classification of Offenses and Sentences

Each entry represents the total sentence imposed on one defendant in one case. Sentences imposed on other defendants in the same case or on the same defendant in other cases are shown separately. Consecutive sentences imposed on convictions of separate charges within a case are added together and shown under the offense which generally has the highest maximum sentence.

The offense selected is the offense for which the longest term was imposed. If two or more equal terms represent the longest term, the offense carrying the highest severity code (specified in the U.S. Title and Code Criminal Offense Citations Manual) is shown.

For example, if a defendant is convicted of three auto theft violations in the same case and sentenced to two 4-year terms to run consecutively and a 3-year term to run concurrently, the total sentence is shown as eight years for auto theft. For a defendant who receives ten years for a bank robbery, five years for carrying away money from the bank (larceny), and five years for carrying a weapon (all to be served consecutively), the total sentence is shown as 20 years and the offense recorded as bank robbery.

Charges for aiding and abetting, accessory, crimes committed on special maritime or territorial jurisdictions, and conspiracies are shown under Title 18 U.S.C. Sections 2, 3, 13, and 371, respectively. The A.O. four-digit offense code indicates the substantive offense. Examples are: 18.2-4700, aiding and abetting in mail fraud; 18.13-2400, burglary in a territory (Virgin Islands, Guam, or Northern Marianas) or on a military, Indian, or park reservation, etc; 18.371-7830, conspiracy to violate firearms regulations, and so forth. Coding of drug offenses under Title 21 is explained in a special section to follow.

Administrative Office (A.O.) offense codes for general offense categories are provided in the appendix. Probation officers and others in the judicial family may refer to the publication U.S. Criminal Offense Citations Manual January 1984 (Fifth Edition) for the proper codes for each title and section.

Locating and Reading Data and Averages

Matching the title/section to the A.O. code

Sentences are displayed according to the titles and sections for which convictions were obtained. Because a single title and section can describe several offenses, the four-digit A.O. offense code is used as an additional classification. In order to locate and interpret specific sentencing data within a title and section, match the A.O. four-digit code with the title and section in the Offense Citations Manual or from the Appendix.

Dotted lines that extend across the entire page mark the end of all data pertaining to an offense. Abbreviated dotted lines separate data pertaining to different offense levels within the same general offense. The overall averages are the last item to appear in each offense group, and are the only averages appearing when data are present for only one offense level within a general offense.

Each line in a column represents a complete, unique sentence, to include months of imprisonment, months of probation, and dollar amounts of fines where appropriate. Defendant counts tell the number of defendants who received each particular sentence. If a sentence includes more than one element, the dominant element determines its placement into the appropriate major column, defined in the next section.

Definition of sentence columns

Imprisonment - Since this is the most severe element, all sentences that include some period of imprisonment appear in this column with the exception of "split sentences," shown separately (see below). Sub-columns are provided under imprisonment to show probation terms and fine amounts when one or both are imposed in addition to a prison term.

YCA sentences under Title 18 U.S.C. Section 5010(b) are coded as 48 months, which is the maximum period such defendants are incarcerated. Life sentences are coded as 540 months, and this year they appear at the beginning of all other imprisonment terms shown for each title and section. Where two different lines of data appear showing 540 months, and both precede other terms of imprisonment, the first line represents regular life terms and the second line indicates "natural" life terms (no parole allowed). Terms of 540 months that fall in their regular order in the display (e.g. after 420 months, but before 600 months) indicate an actual term of 45 years, rather than life. These adjustments to the displayed order of terms have been taken into account in identifying the median and the modal terms.

Probation - Sentences are displayed in this column only when there is no term of imprisonment. Terms of probation are limited to 60 months under Title 18 U.S.C. Section 3651, although separate probation terms imposed consecutively in multiple counts of the same case may aggregate to a higher total. An additional sub-column under Probation shows fine amounts for those defendants sentenced to probation with a fine.

Split Sentences - Sentences of six months or less imprisonment to be followed by a term of probation are shown in this column (Title 18 U.S.C. Section 3651). This year, jail terms of less than 15 days imposed as part of a split sentence are shown as .3 (three-tenths) of a month. Previously, all jail terms of less than one month were shown as a full month. This change presents a more complete picture of jail terms being imposed in split sentences. In addition, the average jail term is somewhat more accurate.

As in past years, a small number of sentences shown in this category are not "split" sentences by strict definition because the Chart does not distinguish between prison and probation imposed on a single count and on separate counts. The sub-column for fine amount is included to accommodate sentences where a fine was also imposed.

Fine Only - Sentences are shown in this column only when the only sentence is a fine.

Other - This year terms that formerly fit into the category of "Other" have been eliminated from the data. This category reflected a variety of sentences including: deportation, sentence suspended; imposition of sentence suspended; four days or less imprisonment; less than one month probation; sentenced to time already served; and remitted or suspended fines. The effect on the remaining data is that the percentages shown for each of the other types of sentences is increased slightly, since the total terms have been reduced. Past experience has shown "other" terms to number no more than 400 in any year for all titles and sections combined.

Explanation of defendant counts, percentages, and averages

The total number of defendants and the average (mean) sentence are provided after the sentences for each title and section. These counts and averages are shown by type of sentence together with the percentage of defendants (shown in parentheses) who received that specific type of sentence. The percentages may add to more or less than 100 percent due to standard rounding. (Note: When using percentage, it's best to indicate both the percent and the total from which it was derived).

Additional subtotals separate the data for Felony and Misdemeanor offenses when both levels are defined within the same title and section. This year, petty offenses have been excluded from the data displayed for two reasons. Information concerning petty offenses is collected in the Criminal Defendant Reporting System only when judges hear such cases. Display of these data in prior years, therefore, without the inclusion of U.S. magistrate cases was incomplete and misleading. Under FPSSIS, petty cases are not reported except where probation supervision results. Display of these data, then, would be even less complete.

The median sentences in the Imprisonment, Probation, and Fine Only columns have been underlined in all groups of ten or more sentences. The median is the sentence in the middle (as in "median strip" on a highway). The median is not identified in the Split Sentence category because of the diverse elements. In some instances where the median is actually a computed value between two sentences (even-numbered totals), the computed value is written next to the column of printed sentences at the mid-point and underlined.

In addition, the mode or most frequently imposed term is identified by an asterisk in offense groups of ten or more sentences. The presence of more than one asterisk indicates that two or more terms, imposed an equal number of times, represent the mode. The mode is identified only when the same term was imposed four or more times. Terms or fine amounts that were imposed nearly as frequently as the mode (within one or two of the modal term when it was imposed in more than ten cases) are identified with a secondary reference mark (+).

Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970 (DAPCA) Offenses

The following three factors must be considered to determine the correct four-digit code for drug offenses: (1) the exact title and section of conviction; (2) the schedule of the drug or drugs; and (3) whether the drug is marihuana, a narcotic, (as defined in the U.S. Code) or a controlled substance. This information is in the court papers (usually described in the charging indictment and also stated on the judgment and commitment order). The category of drug is coded into the first two digits of the A.O. four-digit offense code under the following general definitions:

Code	Definition
65xx	- Marihuana and its derivatives, including hashish.
67xx	- Narcotic drugs as defined in Title 21 U.S.C. Section 812; the two that are most prominent in federal sentencing statistics are heroin (671x) and cocaine (672x).
68xx	- Controlled substances obtainable only by prescription or not customarily used in human medicine. Examples are barbiturates, amphetamines, animal tranquilizers such as PCP, and hallucinogens.

The third digit in the four-digit code is the schedule of drug as defined in Title 21 U.S.C. Section 812.

The fourth digit, defining the specific crime is:

Code	Description of Specific Drug-Related Crime
1	- selling, distributing or dispensing; and possessing with intent to sell, distribute or dispense;
2	- importing;
3	- manufacturing;
4	- simple possession, for personal use, etc.;
5	- falsifying records or prescriptions or using a false prescription.

Thus, sentences for possession of marihuana are found under the appropriate title and section with the four digit code 6514. The code for the crime of selling marihuana is 6511; selling cocaine, a Schedule II narcotic, is 6721; importing heroin, a Schedule I narcotic, is 6712. Making the controlled substance of Barbital (Schedule IV) is 6843. Possessing LSD (Schedule I) is 6814. Once the proper four-digit code is determined, refer directly to the Sentences Imposed Chart for the specific title and section.

Further Instruction Using Sample Data

Explanation of individual terms displayed

Title 18 U.S.C. Section 545 describes the felony offense of smuggling merchandise into the U.S. The sample reprinted here (page xii) is from pages 110 and 111. Convictions under this statute are recorded in three general offense categories, as denoted by three different A.O. four-digit offense codes. The first group of sentences shown under A.O. code 6700 represent terms imposed on 21 defendants for narcotics smuggling (most of which is now prosecuted under Title 21 statutes of the Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970). The last group of sentences shown under A.O. code 9960 are for 3 defendants convicted of smuggling liquor. The group of sentences shown in the middle, under A.O. code 9931, were imposed for all other convictions of smuggling merchandise. This group is the focus of more detailed explanations that follow.

There were a total of 44 defendants convicted of smuggling merchandise (other than narcotics or liquor) under the Title 18 U.S.C. Section 545 during the year ended June 30, 1984. Under Imprisonment, 12 defendants were sentenced as follows: 1 defendant-3 months prison and a fine of $15,000; 2 defendants-12 months prison, no fine; 1 defendant-12 months prison and $10,000 fine; 1 defendant-12 months imprisonment, 60 months probation and $20,000 fine. All but one of the remaining defendants received imprisonment terms only with no probation and no fine, as follows: 1 defendant-18 months; 1 defendant-24 months; 1 defendant-25 months; 1 defendant-30 months; and 2 defendants-36 months; the last sentence shown under Imprisonment was for 60 months prison and 60 months probation.

Under Probation, 3 defendants received terms of 24 months—1 without a fine, 1 with a fine of $2,500 and 1 with a fine of $5,000. Ten defendants received terms of 36 months, 8 with no fines, 1 with a fine of $300, and 1 with a fine of $1,500. The other six defendants received the maximum 60 months probation, 4 with no fines, 1 with a $5,000 fine and 1 with a $10,000 fine.

A total of 11 defendants received Split Sentences ranging from 2 months in prison, 24 months probation and $10,000 fine to 6 months in prison, 60 months probation and $10,000 fine. The prison months shown in this category contain a decimal place to accommodate terms of .3 month that are shown when a defendant receives less than 15 days. There were no such sentences imposed for this offense.

Under Fine Only, two defendants received fines of $20,000.

Explanation of summary lines with averages (means)

The totals are summarized on the bottom lines marked "Overall Average" and "All Defts/(Pct)". The first figure indicates a total of 44 defendants were sentenced. Twelve defendants were sentenced to prison, or 27 percent, for an average of 23 months; 2 defendants imprisoned also received probation of 60 months, and 3 defendants received fines averaging $15,000 in addition to imprisonment. Nineteen defendants received probation, or 43 percent of the total. The average probation term was 42 months. Six defendants receiving probation also received fines averaging $4,050. Eleven defendants received split sentences (25 percent of the total), with the average jail time computed at 5 months and the average probation term computed to be 48 months. Five defendants who received split sentences also received fines averaging $6,500. Two defendants (5 percent of the total) received only a fine of $20,000.

Explanation of the median and the mode

In addition to the mean or average term, the median terms under Imprisonment and Probation are underlined in the sample. Because an even number of defendants were sentenced to imprisonment, the mid-point of the 12 terms is between the sixth sentence term of 18 months and the seventh term of 24 months. Dividing the difference in half provides a value of 21 months, which is the point at which half of the sentences (six) fell below and the other half (six) fell above. The median term for probation is the tenth sentence, since the total number of defendants was an odd number. The tenth sentence term provides the value at which 9 sentences were higher and nine sentences were lower. Since the tenth term is one of those in the group of 10 defendants who received 36 months, the median probation term is 36 months. The median is not applicable to the Fine Only category because there were not at least 10 defendants receiving a fine only.

Finally, the modes or most-frequently imposed terms are identified with an asterisk. Under Imprisonment, the mode is 12 months, since four defendants received that term. No other prison term was imposed more than twice. Under Probation, the mode is 36 months, because this term was imposed 10 times, or in more than half of the cases in which probation was imposed.

Cautions in Quoting Average (Mean) Sentences

The average sentences presented in this Chart are actually "mean" sentences. They provide a central measure of sentences which can vary greatly. As a result, averages can be unduly affected by sentences that are either much higher or much lower than the rest of those in a group. For example, if nine defendants are sentenced to one month imprisonment and a tenth defendant is given 120 months, the resulting average of 13 months does not present a true picture of sentencing patterns for that particular offense.

In contrast, sentences that are extremely low in comparison to the other sentences in a group reduce the average sentence. The average of six fines, three for $5,000 and three for $10,000, is $7,500. When a seventh fine of $100 is added to the group, the average becomes $6,443 - more than $1,000 less than the average of the first six fines.

The distortion caused by these extremes is increased as the number of defendants decreases. If, in the imprisonment example, the defendants are reduced to five, four with one month and the fifth with 120 months imprisonment, the average becomes 25 months. This is 24 months more than the term imposed in 80 percent of the cases.

The offense groupings in Appendix Table D-5 of the Annual Report of the Director are broad enough to reduce the effects of extreme sentences. These general categories, however, are subdivided into specific titles and sections in this publication, creating many totals with less than five defendants. This increases the possibility that the average may not accurately reflect the sentences actually imposed. Further, when the total number of sentences is small and those sentences differ greatly, the average is no longer useful. For Federal probation officers preparing sentencing statistics in presentence reports for the court, it is recommended that in such situations the individual sentences be provided in place of the average, or as supplemental information or footnotes.

Other alternatives for determining a single figure that best represents a group of widely varying sentences are presented in the next section.

Alternatives to the Computed Average (Mean)

The mean is not the only measure for indicating the typical sentence imposed for any specific offense, nor is it necessarily the best method. It is however, the most commonly used and therefore easily understood, and it has a history of use in other sentencing statistics.

In the discussion that follows, three alternatives are presented for recomputing totals to serve special situations and provide a broader picture of sentencing patterns. You are encouraged to use them to suit your needs. Be sure, however, to footnote any adjustments you make to the averages presented in this Chart when you are quoting this publication as the source for your conclusions.

Explanation of the published average (mean)

The second sample (page xv) shows sentences imposed for convictions under Title 18 U.S.C. Section 1709, A.O. Code 4200, from page 157. This offense involves the embezzlement of mail matter by a postal employee. To calculate an average, each sentence is multiplied by the number of defendants receiving that sentence, the resulting products are added, and the sum is divided by the total number of defendants in that sub-column. The first calculation beneath the sample data shows that the total months imposed under Imprisonment was 588. Dividing this figure by the 17 defendants sentenced to imprisonment produces the published average of 35 months.

Computing the average (mean) term imposed for a single count

The maximum penalty allowed under Title 18 U.S.C. Section 1709 is five years imprisonment and a fine of $2,000 for each count. Under Imprisonment in the sample, the terms of 72 months and 120 months that were imposed on separate individual defendants exceed the maximum authorized for a single count. These terms can result when consecutive terms are imposed on multiple counts within the same case. The Chart displays the aggregate. The additional counts could involve separate charges for each piece of mail embezzled or convictions obtained for other offenses in the same case that were less serious than postal embezzlement.

Eliminating these sentence terms and recalculating the average will provide a figure more appropriate to convictions on a single count, or on multiple counts where the aggregate of terms did not exceed the maximum for a single count. In the second calculation, the sentences of 72 months and 120 months have been eliminated reducing the total imprisonment months to 396. Dividing this figure by the remaining 15 defendants produces an adjusted average of 26 months. The difference of 9 months between the published average and this alternative average reflects the distortion that can occur from just two unusually long sentences.

Recalculating the average (mean) to exclude upper and lower extreme sentences

Another alternative is to eliminate the upper and lower ten percent of the individual entries and recompute the average. Dividing the total of defendants imprisoned in the sample data by 10 produces a 10% figure of 1.7 defendants. Rounding up to 2 requires that 2 sentences need to be eliminated from both the upper and lower end of the range of prison terms to establish an average for the middle 80% of the terms imposed. Discounting from the lower end of the range 2 of the 4 sentences of 12 months imprisonment with no probation or fine, and the terms of 120 months and 72 months from the upper range of terms, leaves a remainder of 372 prison months imposed. Dividing this figure by the remaining 13 defendants (4 defendants were eliminated) produces an adjusted average of 29 months. This method removes distortion from extremes at both ends of the data group.

Adjusting averages (means) to include terms or amounts shown as secondary elements

The mean averages shown are calculated only for terms that are the sole or primary element in a sentence. Under Probation, the average shown is for those whose primary sentence was probation, notwithstanding probation terms that may have been imposed in addition to imprisonment and as elements of split sentences. Probation terms shown under Imprisonment can be added to the Probation column and the average recalculated. Similarly, the average fine amount shown under Fine Only does not include fines imposed in addition to imprisonment, probation or split sentences. The average fine imposed in conjunction with prison or probation or both can be calculated separately, or added with fines imposed as the sole element in a sentence to determine the average fine when all fine amounts in an offense group are combined.

In the sample data, there were no sentences of fine only imposed, but there were 2 fines imposed in addition to imprisonment — 1 for $7,949 with a prison term of 12 months, and 1 for $2,500 that accompanied the prison term of 120 months. The average of these fines is shown as $5,225 on the summary line. The total amount of the fines issued with prison terms, then, is $10,449.

The summary line indicates that 18 of the defendants given probation terms also received fines ranging from $100 for 2 defendants who received 36 month terms, to $3,000 for another defendant who received 36 months probation. The average of these 18 fines is shown as $775. Multiplying the average by 18 (the number of defendants with probation and fines) provides a total fine amount in this column of $13,950. (The individual fines can also be added together in series to produce the same result.) Finally, there were 4 defendants who received fines that were in addition to split sentences imposed. The average for these 4 fines is shown as $700, so the total fine amount is $2,800.

Adding the three total fine amounts from each category of sentence provides a total of $27,199. The total number of defendants who received fines in addition to some other sentence element is 24. Dividing the dollar total by the 24 defendants produces an average fine amount of $1,133. In this way, you can determine an average fine amount for a fine to be imposed in addition to a term of prison or probation. You also obtain an average fine amount for those offenses in which no defendant received a fine only. The same basic calculations can be done to determine the average probation term to include probation imposed in addition to imprisonment and probation imposed in split sentences.

Conclusion

Each of these alternatives are useful for correcting misleading interpretations that can be indicated by only a single measure of central tendency. Apply them to check the relevance of the published average and to counteract the effects of sentences that are unusually higher or lower than the other sentences in an offense group.

The D-5 Table and the Sentences Imposed Chart

Two major differences between this Sentences Imposed Chart and the presentation of the same data in Appendix Table D-5 of the Annual Report are the total number of sentences and the manner in which the average sentence is obtained.

The Appendix Table D-5 accounts for the number of defendants convicted during the year. A system of "duplicate defendant accounting" is employed in the D-5 program to ensure that only the case involving the most serious conviction is shown when the same defendant is convicted in separate cases. The Chart, on the contrary, lists separately the sentence for each case in which the same defendant was convicted during the year.

Within the Chart, the Imprisonment category includes all sentences showing a term of imprisonment. Appendix Table D-5 separately displays indeterminate terms imposed under Title 18 U.S.C. Section 4205(b)(1) or (2) and Youth Correction Act terms. Life sentences, too, are excluded from Imprisonment in Appendix Table D-5 and shown instead under Other.

These differences affect the average sentences shown in each presentation and comparisons should be made only with appropriate caution. The Sentences Imposed Chart, because it displays all the elements of each sentence under specific offense citations, is recommended to probation officers as the primary source for national statistics in preparing presentence reports.
